

AdvanceMe Signs Preferred Provider Agreement with First Data

ATLANTA (April 17, 2007) – AdvanceMe, Inc. (AMI), the nation's foremost provider of Merchant Cash Advances for small and mid-sized businesses, today announced the signing of a preferred provider agreement with First Data Merchant Services Corp., a subsidiary of First Data Corp. (NYSE: FDC). First Data, along with its participating alliance of partners and independent sales organizations, will make AdvanceMe's Merchant Cash Advance product available as an alternative funding choice.

"First Data recognizes the challenges many small and mid-sized businesses face in today's competitive landscape. We're pleased to add AdvanceMe's Merchant Cash Advance option to our continually expanding suite of services for the merchant community," said Barry McCarthy, president of product innovation at First Data Commercial Services.

AdvanceMe became the recognized leader within the Merchant Cash Advance category by understanding the financial situation and challenges small and mid-sized businesses face. This understanding was further reinforced by a survey of small business owners by Capital Access Network, AdvanceMe's parent company, in late 2006. The Capital Access Network Small Business Barometer noted that 80 percent of small businesses have a greater need for funding today than they did one year ago.

"First Data is one of the most respected names in the business. We are honored that our Merchant Cash Advance product has been chosen to complement and extend its best-in-class services," said Glenn Goldman, chief executive officer of Capital Access Network.
